

Consent to Publish

Title of the Volume: Automatic Verification of Critical Systems (AVoCS 2006)

Editors: Stephan Merz and Tobias Nipkow

Title of the Contribution:

Name(s) of Author(s):

Corresponding Author (name, address, affiliation, e-mail):

The authors of the contribution identified above grant INRIA the non-exclusive right to reproduce and distribute all the elements of the contribution (notably including all illustrations, graphics, and multimedia elements) according to the conditions stated hereafter.

- INRIA may reproduce the contribution in the form of preliminary conference proceedings (pre-print) on any support, including electronic and paper versions.
- INRIA may distribute the contribution via electronic preprint servers such as `hal.inria.fr` and `arxiv.org`.

The authors expressly retain the right to publish the contribution or a revised version of the contribution via any medium that allows authors to maintain the contribution on an electronic preprint server.

The authors warrant that the contribution is original except for such excerpts from copyrighted works (including illustrations, tables, and text quotations) as may be included with the permission of the copyright holder and the author thereof, in which case(s) the authors are required to indicate the precise source of such excerpts and to secure and maintain the permission to reprint.

The authors warrant that they have obtained the authorization of the copyright holders of all the elements of the contribution. They warrant that the contribution contains no libelous statements and that it does not infringe on any copyright, trademark, patent, statutory rights or proprietary rights of others, and that INRIA will be indemnified against any costs, expenses or damages for which INRIA may become liable as a result of any breach of this warranty.

This authorization is granted to INRIA free of charge and for an indefinite period of time. The undersigned author warrants that he or she has obtained the consent from all authors to sign this agreement and that he or she represents all authors of the contribution.

Place and date:

Name and signature: